Throughout the year, especially during the dreary winter months, brides-to-be dream about having their ceremony outdoors. The allure of being surrounded by nature in the open fresh air vividly captures imaginations... clear blue skies... gentle spring breezes... the glistening sun... cheerful birds singing.

Picture this: Your big day is tomorrow when the forecast changes, bringing a frown to your face... from the threat of spring showers to a tropical storm warning... you are left wondering how you will adequately protect your guests.

The good news is that you can eliminate such stress. Once you know your budget, your next step is to book your venue as soon as possible. If you desire outdoor space, be sure your venue has a secure Plan B for factoring in the risk of inclement weather - and demonstrated experience in executing it.

At the Grand Prospect Hall, we have three decades of spectacular Plan B options. While some of our guests have rented tents; most prefer hosting their ceremony in one of our magnificent indoor ballrooms.
